BUS Recognizes and Rewards Employee Efforts

In March 1996, BUS employees eagerly began participating in the Lab-wide Los Alamos Award Program. This 2-year pilot program was designed to recognize and reward exceptional one-time achievements, outstanding accomplishments, and significant contributions by Laboratory employees.

The BUS Division Award Program (in concert with the Los Alamos Award Program), solicits a call for nominations by the first of each month. Nominations, which may be made by anyone in BUS, are sponsored by the appropriate group leader and reviewed by the Award Panel by the 15th of each month. The Award Panel, comprised of one member from each BUS group, review each nomination and make final recommendations to Allan Johnston.

Individual awards range between $500 - $1000, with team awards ranging between $1500 - $2000. Employee accomplishments from all BUS groups have been recognized. Between March and August, approximately 90 BUS division employees have been awarded nearly $20,000. The program will continue in FY 97.
